

Sworn Translation

The Right Credentials, the Right Process, the Right Documentation — Wherever You're Submitting.

BIG
LANGUAGE SOLUTIONS

When your business needs official translations for legal, corporate, or regulatory purposes, BIG delivers sworn translations with the right credentials, the right process, and the documentation authorities expect.

Because authorization rules differ by country, what's called "sworn" in one place may be handled as a certified translation or may require notarization elsewhere. BIG helps you get the right format for the country and agency you're submitting to.

What's Included

- ✓ Sworn, certified, or notarized translation — matched to the receiving country
- ✓ Credentialed, jurisdiction-aligned translators
- ✓ Controlled workflow with formatting, terminology, and QA checkpoints
- ✓ Secure handling of sensitive personal data
- ✓ Delivery in digital, physical, or combined formats
- ✓ Support for legalization, apostille, or Consulate next steps

Why It Matters

Sworn work is high-stakes and often includes sensitive personal data.

Acceptance depends on matching the right format and credentials to the receiving country and agency.

Errors in names, dates, numbers, or formatting can cause delays or outright rejection.

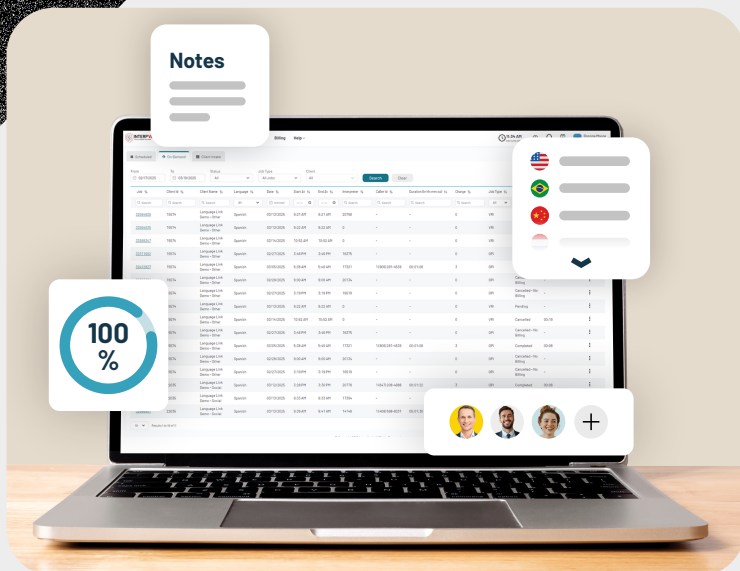

Multi-document submissions need consistent terminology and packaging.

Bottom Line...

If a translation isn't sworn, certified, or notarized the way the receiving authority expects, submissions get delayed or rejected.
